Dear Emma,

How are you? I hope you are performing well in your studies as you used to do when I was still with you at St Francis. How is your younger sister Nora? I am sure that now she is with you at St. Francis, she would not be playing as many pranks at your expense as before, or else you will punish her, being her senior! Please tell her I said hello.

Emma, I know St. Francis is a very good school, but I wish you would join me at my new school, Christ the King College. You may wonder what the difference is between the two schools, but Christ the King is a boarding school, whereas St. Francis is a day school. I believe that now that we are in our senior years of secondary school, we don't need distractions that are common at home. For instance, I bet you still do a lot of chores when you return from school. And then there's the television with its many tempting shows. I will be truthful; I wish I could watch "Dr Strange" right now!

Also, Christ the King College is older and bigger than St. Francis. It has a fully equipped and functional laboratory donated by the many eminent alumni of the school. St. Francis has a laboratory, too, but it is still a work in progress. It is something that will be beneficial to students presently in the junior classes and not students already in the senior classes, who are so close to the Senior School Certificate examination.

Again, Emma, remember how well we studied together? So well that if I am in the first position when results are released, you are second, and vice versa. Our parents even became friends because of us. I wish we could continue challenging ourselves, but that would only be possible if you came over to Christ the King College.

Finally, Emma, have you made a choice of university yet? I have decided on Covenant University Ota. The school ticks all the check boxes for quality tertiary education, and although it is far from home, I believe it will be a great experience.

Please talk to your parents about the idea of coming to Christ the King! I look forward to seeing you and Nora during the holidays. Take care!

Your friend,

Rio
